Virginia's Manufacturing Interests.

As was stated in the Gazette, a substantial increase in the manufactures of Virginia is indicated in a statistical summary given out yesterday by the Census Bureau for the year ended December 31, 1905.

The census is confined to establishments with a product of $500 or more, thus excluding the neighborhood industries and hand trades, such as building trades, dressmaking, custom millinery, custom sewing and grinding, cobbling and blacksmithing. Including these industries, there were reported at the twelfth census 8,248 establishments, with 72,702 wage-earners and products valued at $132,172,910.

The total in the summary are reduced as nearly as possible to a comparative basis, showing the statistics of the manufacturing industries for the State and four principal cities in 1900 and 1905.

It is shown in the summary that in the time intervening between the census of 1900 and the census of 1905 the number of manufacturing establishments in Virginia has not materially increased, there being 3,185 reported in 1900 and 3,187 in 1905. The amount of money invested in these concerns, however, has increased to the extent of 60.3 per cent., or from $92,299,589 in 1900 to $147,989,182 in 1905. The number of salaried officials, clerks, etc., has increased from 3,828, drawing salaries aggregating $3,629,609, to 4,970, with salaries aggregating $4,874,806. The increase is 29.8 per cent. in numbers and 34.3 per cent. in salaries.

The average number of wage-earners in the State has increased from 66,224 in 1900 to 80,256 in 1905, and the wages paid from $20,273,889 to $27,943,058, an increase of 21.2 in the number of wage-earners and 37.8 per cent. in the amount of wages paid.

The cost of materials used has increased 40.9 per cent., or from $59,359,484 to $83,649,149. Miscellaneous expenses have increased from $11,249,908 to $14,403,382.

The value of the products of the State, including custom work and repairing, is estimated at $148,856,525 in 1905, as against $108,644,150 in 1900, an increase of 37 per cent.

The four principal manufacturing cities of the State are shown to be Richmond, Norfolk, Petersburg and Rosinoko.

Physician Suspected of Murder.

An arrest was made in Nashville, Tenn., yesterday in connection with the death of Mrs. Rosa Mangrum, who disappeared from Nashville December 14 and whose body was found six weeks later in the Ohio river, near Cairo.

Dr. J. Herman Feist, of Nashville, the dead woman's physician, with whom she is said to have been intimately and ready to divorce her husband and marry, was arrested by detectives on a warrant charging robbery and murder. The affidavit to the warrant was made by Chester B. Mason, the woman's brother.

Several hundred people gathered about the magistrate's office, where attorneys were agreeing on bond. The woman's brother was removed from the office for fear he might attempt violence on the prisoner, who was later released on $10,000 bond.

The evidence is thought to be largely circumstantial, and neither the officers nor the defendants have anything to say.

The woman was pretty and attractive, about thirty years old, and the wife of a banker. Feist is unmarried, and about thirty five. Several years ago a young woman infatuated with him committed suicide in his office.

Mrs. Mangrum and her husband had had domestic difficulties, and last December Mrs. Mangrum said she would visit relatives in St. Louis. Mrs. Mangrum was the possessor of considerable money in her name.

No one has been found up to this time who saw Mrs. Mangrum leave Nashville. Her trunk, which was checked to St. Louis, was found in the baggage room of a railroad in Chicago, and detectives from that city were at once enlisted to aid the men from St. Louis and the local police.

Mr. Mangrum had been searching for his wife ever since her relatives replied from St. Louis that she had not arrived there and had about given up, when her body was found floating in the Mississippi river near Cairo. Her clothes were still in her possession, but, according to those who saw the body, there were evidences of finger marks about the throat. The body had been in the water for some time.

Dr. Feist is said to have borrowed money from Mangrum, and it is claimed by those interested in his arrest that the doctor was with Mrs. Mangrum early in the evening on which she disappeared.

Starving to Death.
Because her stomach was so weakened by useless drugging that she could not eat, Mrs. Mary H. Walters, of St. Clair St., Columbus, O., was literally starving to death. She writes: "My stomach was so weak from useless drugs that I could not eat, and my nerves so wrecked that I could not sleep; and not before I was given up to die was I induced to try Electric Bitters; with the wonderful result that improvement began at once, and a complete cure followed." Best health tonic ever taken. 50c. Guaranteed by E. S. Leat bester & Sons druggists.

Fell From Church Roof.

While a score of persons, mostly fashionably attired women, stood speechless with horror in front of St. Bartholomew's Church, on Madison avenue, New York, yesterday afternoon, Walter Cathie, aged 60 years, struggled for his life as he clung to the gutter high up on the eaves of the church.

For three minutes Cathie squirmed and clutched the gutter, vainly trying to pull himself back to safety. The crowd was hypnotized by horror and could not move to aid the man. It would have been impossible for anyone to get up to the roof in time to pull him back, and no ladder could have been obtained for him. Helplessly the men and women watched him fight for his life.

Cathie went out on the steep, slanting roof alone. He did not use a rope, and evidently counted on the width of the gutter as being safe enough. His first work was to chip away the ice that clogged the leaders, so that the water might run off and he could see where the leaks were. He was chopping with a small hatchet when he slipped on a mound of ice. He was six stories above the pavement. With the coolness that is as much a part of the roofer's trade as it is of the steepjack, he struck out with his hatchet for a grip. He had fallen on his stomach. The hatchet failed to catch and in a minute he was over the ledge. He grasped the edge of the gutter. He was too stiff and weak, though, to swing himself back, so he swung and cald loudly for help.

He tried several times to throw himself back by a vaulting motion. At his last trial the copper-lined gutter, corroded and half eaten away, broke, and he came down like a shot, turning head foremost. He struck on his head, which was crushed to a pulp. Death was instantaneous.

Wife Shoots Husband.

Finding her husband drinking in a saloon with another woman at Fort Dodge, Iowa, at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, after an all night's carousal, Mrs. John Keller shot and fatally wounded him, and slightly wounded Ed Jessick. She also tried to kill her husband's companion, but her aim was erratic.

Keller was out all night with the woman who caused the trouble. His wife learned of the fact, and equipping herself with a revolver, set out on the trail of her husband, determined to have the lives of both of them.

She followed them all night, finally discovering the pair at 6 o'clock yesterday morning drinking together.

With the words, "So there you are," she pulled the .38 caliber Colt's revolver from her muff and opened fire.

Two shots fired at her husband's companion missed, and she dashed out of the saloon and escaped. Mrs. Keller then turned the weapon on her husband and shot him in the abdomen. He gave a cry, and as she staggered and fell she shot at the bartender, whom she gave a flesh wound in the arm.

Announcing that her work was done, she laid the revolver on the bar and gave herself up to Policeman Nicholson, who entered at that time. The name of the woman who caused the trouble is still unknown and she cannot be found.
